IMPROVING TEACHING

Improving Teaching (IT) is in its second year as a special project of the Learning Development Committee and the Learning Development Office. The purpose of this special project is:

1) To encourage and support faculty to improve the teaching-learning experience on the Loyola Campus.

2) To support faculty in the development of new instructional materials.

3) To support faculty in the development of personal and professional skills to better facilitate student learning.

Method of "IT"

To award grants to individuals or groups to support their activities to achieve the above purposes.

Procedures for "IT"

Applications for support are available from the Learning Development Office, Hackett 30, local 397. The deadline for receiving applications is April 15, 1976. All applications will be reviewed by the Learning Development Committee and an announcement concerning the awarding of funds will be made no later than May 15, 1976.
